DOUGIE FREEDMAN

Just looking back over my first month or so as manager of the football club and I have to say that I have been extremely humbled to have been welcomed in such a way by the players, staff and supporters. The transition has been as smooth as it could have been.

Together, we're all striving for one thing, to win football matches. It is pleasing to see that we're all heading in the same direction, looking to improve and move forward.

I believe that we have got a squad that needs to be used wisely. I go into every game with that in mind. It's not me trying to be clever, constantly chopping and changing the team around, I'm just doing what I believe is best for certain games and best for the football club.

For example, looking back to the Blackburn game, I felt it was necessary to get as much experience on the pitch as possible. I had that thought in my mind before the Brighton game, so in order to keep people fresh we decided to mix the team up for that game. Rotating players is nothing new and it is something that I believe will come into our game more and more. I think that our players are slowly beginning to understand that rotating the squad is the way forward. It is certainly something I am a strong believer in.

I want to keep players as fresh as possible and keep everybody eager enough to understand that they will get their opportunity. It is working well for us at the moment, but there will be times when it doesn't go to plan and when that does happen we've got to accept that, stick together and move on.

The players have been brilliant since I arrived. It goes without saying that every player wants to play football matches, but I think that if I can try and explain what I'm trying to do the players it will be a little easier to understand my decisions.

The lads are starting to buy into my training methods and the intensity at which we like to do things.

We've got a busy period of fixtures coming up over the Christmas period, with the FA Cup fixture thrown in at the beginning of January. It's always interesting to see what will happen with tomorrow's third round draw.

It's a very hectic schedule for us all, but one we'll really enjoy. At this time of year you get that festive feeling. It brings everyone closer together, regardless of your walk of life. That is something that will be beneficial to me as a manager.

Finally, I'd like to welcome Mick McCarthy and his team to the Reebok, as well as our match sponsors Northwest Floor Screeders. Mick is a good man. I'm sure he'll continue the good work he's doing at the moment. He is certainly someone I've got a lot of time for.

Thank you once again for your continued support and enjoy the game,

KEVIN DAVIES

Following Wednesday's game at Blackburn, we're getting a little bit of a run together now. We're unbeaten under the new manager, which is nice, though we would of course have liked to have turned some of the draws into wins. What is now important is that we follow up the midweek result with both another good performance and three points this afternoon against Ipswich.

The early goal at Blackburn quietened the home crowd down before they'd had chance to give me any stick! It got us off to a good start and I thought that we controlled the game. They had a little rally after they scored, but overall we thoroughly deserved to win.

Whilst we're all happy with how things went against Blackburn, that game has now been and gone. On Thursday morning we were back in training in preparation for today's game. There's a really good feeling about the place at the moment – we're all in it together.

We look at the table and it's not where we want to be. But we know that we've not yet hit our run and I've been feeling confident that things will turn for us. We're playing in a certain way and I think everybody can see that we're now getting used to it and I'm confident that we can back this up with a win today. December has got some good games to look forward to, so hopefully we can start pushing up the league.

There is real competition for places at the moment – everybody wants to play and nobody is hiding. We've got a good squad and the manager decided to freshen things up for the Blackburn game and it certainly worked for us.

David Ngog scored the late equaliser at Brighton which was fantastic and I'm sure he was disappointed not to play at Blackburn. I was in a similar position for the game at Brighton after I had scored against Barnsley. That's the way it is. We've got to accept that as a team and when we're called upon we have to make sure we do the business.

As I've said before, there has been no sulking. Everybody is doing their bit for the team. I'll be hoping to play the next game and the one after that, and if I'm not then you just do whatever you can to help the team. It is now important that we win this afternoon's game, especially as it's at home. Ipswich won't make it easy for us and there is no danger of anyone taking anything for granted.

It will be nice to see the Ipswich manager Mick McCarthy before today's match. I played a bit of golf with him a couple of years ago and we still have the occasional chat. He's a great guy and we've stayed friends. He's got a good sense of humour and I think football needs characters like him in the game. It's no surprise that he's done well in the few games he's had, although I'm sure he knows he's got a tough job to do. I wish him well, but obviously not until after today!

AFOBE DELIGHT ON ENGLAND UNDER-21 DEBUT

Benik Afobe got his England Under-21s career off to the perfect start by scoring from the spot in their 2-0 win over Northern Ireland.

The on-loan striker was introduced at half-time and he marked his debut with a 76-minute penalty after being brought down inside the area. Afobe's impressive 45-minute cameo stands him in good stead for making the squad for next summer's European Championship.

WANDERERS STAFF SHOW THEIR SUPPORT FOR MACMILLAN

Bolton Wanderers staff hosted a tea party event last month to raise funds for one of the club's internally supported charities, Macmillan Cancer Support.

The tea party was hosted at both the Reebok Stadium and at the club's training ground in Euxton where a range of delicious treats were enjoyed by all raising £420 for Macmillan.

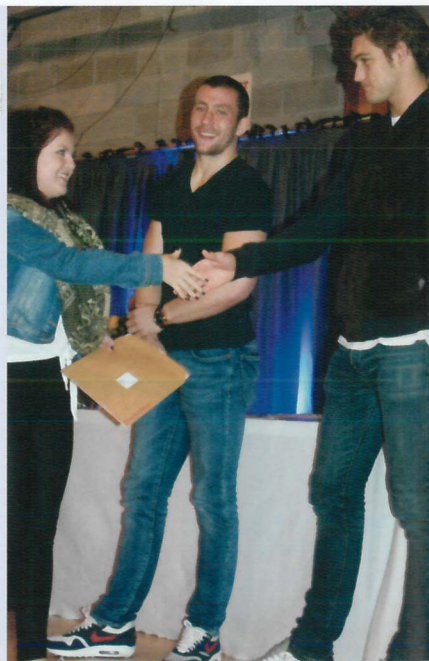

Macmillan Cancer Support helps improve the lives of people affected by cancer; they provide medical, emotional, practical and financial support and push for a better cancer care system.

Academy Graduates Meet BWCT Adult Disability Team

Academy graduates Joe Riley and Jay Lynch popped along to Bolton Arena last week to find out more about Bolton Wanderers Community Trust's pan disability team.

The team has been running for a few years and has a group of highly competitive players whilst also supporting the development of new players to the sport within the pan disability rules and currently compete in the Manchester Ability Counts league. Joe and Jay spent their time at Bolton Arena helping the players to warm up before getting involved in some simple skills games which then developed into a 7-a-side game where the two Wanderers players showcased their refereeing skills.

At the end of the session Joe and Jay took some time out with the players to find out more about the pan disability league and also the England Amputee FA which some of the team participate in.

KNIGHT HOPES TO KEEP KIDS ON THE RIGHT PATH

Zat Knight welcomed children from the Institute of Sport and Bolton Wanderers International Soccer Club to the Reebok Stadium last week to talk about the responsibilities of being a professional footballer.

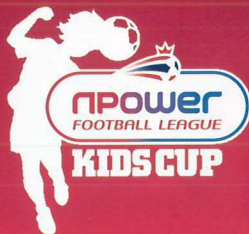

The defender, who grew up in a deprived area of Birmingham, took part in a question and answer session with the aspiring youngsters and spoke to them about the importance of work ethic as well as the hard work and dedication that is needed in order to be successful.

Speaking after his visit Zat said: "I always enjoy getting involved in community visits such as these; if talking to these youngsters for one afternoon means that I can help them develop in any way and aspire them to better themselves as individuals then it makes it all worthwhile for me."

KEITH ANDREWS

IRISH BORN, ENGLISH BRED

Keith Andrews arrived at Bolton in the summer after joining on a free transfer from West Bromwich Albion. The Ireland international has come a long way from his Dublin roots, having learnt his trade at Wolves before moving on to Hull, MK Dons, Blackburn and today's opponents Ipswich Town.

He told the official matchday programme how excited he is about his latest football challenge here in the North West, but as we discovered, there's plenty more to the midfielder than life on the pitch.

You left Ireland as a 15-year-old. How big a decision was that?

Like most kids I started playing on the street. I was playing for a local team when I got spotted and went to play for one of the better sides in Dublin, Stella Maris. My mum, dad and sister got dragged along to my games although my sister stayed in the car doing her homework! I'll always be grateful to my family for what they sacrificed; my dad would even clean my boots each weekend!

There were quite a few other Irish lads at Wolves' academy at the time so that helped me settle in but it was still a massive decision going to England as a 15-year-old. I went to a good school and my mum wanted me to progress and further my education. The one condition of me moving to Wolves was that I kept my education going and I did that in my spare time so that if I didn't make it as a footballer I had something to fall back on.

Who were you particularly friendly with during your time at Wolves?

When I first moved over there were five Irish lads, three of which don't play anymore. One is a fireman in Dublin, another is in a refrigeration company while the other one owns a sports shop in Galway.

They've all done well for themselves but only really myself and Robbie Keane went on to have a career so it just shows you how difficult it is to make it in the game. I have remained in close contact with those lads and they will always be close friends of mine.

After you left Molineux, you had a brief spell at Hull, but is it true you could have gone to play in the MLS?

Yes. At that time I was very close to going to America. I had fallen out of love with the game and I just felt like I needed something different. I wasn't enjoying my life, I wasn't enjoying my football so I just felt that a total change of scenery would have been beneficial for me and I had an offer to play in New York.

Thankfully my family and my friends persuaded me to give it another go in England. I was 24 at the time and I know if I'd have gone over to the States it would have been very difficult to come back and play over here. Although I had a stop-start season at Hull, from there I moved on to MK Dons.

How did the move to MK Dons come about?

I only went down to MK Dons out of courtesy because they'd shown a strong interest in me. Travelling down there I had it in my head that they were in League One, but while I was on the motorway I was told that they'd been relegated and were actually a League Two club so that was a bit of a nasty shock!

But I saw the stadium, had a look round and got a really good feel for the place. Paul Ince came in as manager and started playing the kind of football that I really like to play and had a lot of success. It's the best move I've ever made.

We won the League Two title that year and the Johnstone's Paint Trophy. To lift a trophy at Wembley is something that I'll always cherish.

How did you enjoy playing for Paul Ince?

I got on so well with Paul and I am still friends with him now. We played in the same team at Wolves and he was such a fantastic leader – although him playing in the same position as me probably kept me out of the side!

There were quite a few Championship sides that came in for me whilst I was at MK Dons but Paul asked me to stay and finish the job we'd started. He told me that if he ever got a move to a bigger club that he'd take me with him. He stayed true to his word and signed me at Blackburn so I'll always be grateful to him for that.

At the start of last season, you had a very successful loan spell at Ipswich, you must have enjoyed your time in Suffolk?

Yeah, I had a fantastic spell there and really enjoyed my football. The way it ended for me at Blackburn was possibly a little bit sour but the club will always be very dear to me because they gave me the opportunity to play Premier League football, which ultimately led to me getting called up to play for Ireland. I'll always be grateful but I felt I needed to move out, so I went on loan to Ipswich.

I've never worked with Mick McCarthy but with him being an ex-Ireland manager he still goes to watch a lot of our games. Every time I've met him he's always struck me as being a very decent man.

When I heard he'd got the Ipswich job I just thought that it was a perfect fit. There's good people running that club and they deserve success. I'm sure he'll be the manager to deliver it.

You're now an established Irish international who has played in the European Championships. How did you find your first major international tournament?

My conscience is clean in terms of the effort that I put in over the Euros but unfortunately as a team we fell short in a lot of areas and got found out by three fantastic sides. It wasn't so much the defeats that annoyed us, it was more the performances. Losing to Spain, Italy and Croatia was obviously disappointing but it was the manner of the defeats that was really hard to take.

You ended up getting sent off in the final match and booting the ball away, is that something you've had a bit of stick for?

It was just sheer frustration; I still to this day

2000: Football League debut for Wolves

2005: Turns down a move to New York, signing for Hull

2008: Captains MK Dons to League Two title & Johnstone's Paint Trophy

don't know what I was sent off for! There may have been a slight shirt pull but I thought that it was a very, very harsh second yellow. To boot the ball away is not something I should have done but emotions were running high.

The lads gave me a bit of banter and said that they were convinced I was just trying to get suspended so I'd miss an away trip to Kazakhstan which was Ireland's first game after the Euros. I'm just thankful that I didn't hit anybody with the ball.

Can you tell us something about your life away from football?

I'm heavily involved in a clothing label called Chess London which has been going since March of this year. It's something that's a side interest for me, it's not like I'm sketching designs but it's an interest I've got. I'm a part owner and it's something that's going very well. Since my late twenties I've tried to make plans for what I'm going to do after I retire from football.

Hopefully retirement is still a little way away but you never know. I've started my coaching badges with the FAI and I also do quite a lot of media work in Ireland, writing a column for an Irish paper and doing bits and pieces on TV. I don't think many players give a lot of consideration about their retirement but I've always known that I want to have something to walk into the day I retire.

We've also heard you're a bit of a dab hand in the kitchen. Have you got any signature dishes?

A friend of mine in Macclesfield has got a restaurant and I regularly stop by, get in the kitchen and show him a few bits and bobs. It's something I've had an interest in since I was very young and being a chef was actually what I wanted to be as a kid. There's too many foods I like to have one clear favourite but Irish people will know that boiled ham with mashed potato and cabbage is unbelievable!

TOP TEN Hat-Trick Heroes

WORDS: MARK HEYS

There will be very few Wanderers supporters who will have forgotten the last time Ipswich Town visited the Reebok Stadium just over a decade ago, for the clash against the East Anglia side in April 2002 all but ensured that Bolton maintained their Premier League position.

With just under 40 minutes, played Bolton found themselves four goals clear in what was one of the most pulsating first halves of football seen at this arena in recent memory and that was thanks largely to the efforts of Wanderers' on-loan German striker Fredi Bobic.

The man from Borussia Dortmund had struggled for goals since arriving in English football, with a single effort in a five-goal thriller against Aston Villa being the only time he had previously found the back of the net in 11 attempts, but the experienced campaigner certainly made up for the barren spell in front of goal in this 4-1 mauling.

He took just over a minute to score his first, turning on Kevin Nolan's wayward shot to fire past keeper Andy Marshall. The second came when he headed past Marshall after Rod Wallace's shot had been blocked and the treble was complete when he reacted first to Ricardo Gardner's corner.

Current Stuttgart sporting director Bobic remains the only Bolton player to have recorded a Premier League hat-trick and in this issue we take a look at ten other hat-tricks throughout the course of Wanderers' history.

Nat Lofthouse – v Charlton Athletic, 1950

Unsurprisingly, club record goalscorer Nat Lofthouse leads the way with eight hat-tricks throughout his Wanderers career, the first of which came on the opening day of the 1950/51 season, but his treble was not enough to defeat Charlton Athletic in a 4-3 reverse at The Valley.

David Jack – v Oldham Athletic, 1922

Another Bolton goalscoring hero David Jack has six hat-tricks to his name in Wanderers colours. In his first season with Bolton his three goals sent the club on their way to a 5-1 demolition of local rivals Oldham Athletic at Burnden Park in January 1922.

Joe Smith – v Bradford City, 1914

Like team-mate and fellow forward Jack, Joe Smith also accumulated six hat-tricks during his long association with the club. His three goals at Burnden Park against Bradford City in March 1914 was his second treble of that season having previously scored three out of the four goals that defeated Swindon Town in the FA Cup.

James Turner – v West Manchester, 1888

Smith was not the first player to score a hat-trick in the cup during Bolton's early days in the Football League; that particular honour fell to James Turner who alongside his brother Richard, formed part of a makeshift Wanderers team that beat lowly West Manchester 9-0 at Pikes Lane.

Dean Holdsworth – v Scunthorpe United, 2001

The last player to score a cup hat-trick was former record signing Dean Holdsworth against Scunthorpe United in February 2001. This made him the first Bolton player to achieve the feat since moving to the Reebok. Holdsworth scored two trademark headers and another from close range in what is currently Bolton's biggest cup result at their current home.

John Byrom – v Rochdale, 1969

Only a select few have scored League Cup hat-tricks for Bolton down the years, one of which is John Byrom. He helped himself to three goals in Bolton's 6-3 win over near neighbours Rochdale as he topped the Wanderers scoring charts that year.

Garry Jones – v Manchester City, 1971

Another League Cup hat-trick from Manchester-born striker Garry Jones helped see off a star-studded and higher ranked Manchester City side in October 1971. The young striker had found goals hard to come by in the league that year but he found his form against the likes of Mike Summerbee, Joe Corrigan and co.

David Reeves – v Rochdale, 1991

David Reeves' only hat-trick in Bolton colours came in December 1991 in front of Burnden Park's lowest ever crowd of 1,507. The hard-working forward gave former Wanderers keeper Kevin Rose a torrid time in the Rochdale goal and in turn sent Dale out of the Autoglass Trophy.

John McGinlay – v Middlesbrough, 1994

Bolton favourite John McGinlay scored two league hat-tricks in the space of six weeks in the 1993/94 season, seeing off Charlton Athletic and Middlesbrough. The 4-1 win against Lennie Lawrence's Boro side was the first time Wanderers had won a home game since McGinlay's treble against the Addicks a matter of weeks previous.

Tony Caldwell – v Walsall, 1983

A decade or so earlier Tony Caldwell became the first post war player to score five goals in a game when Bolton railroaded Walsall 8-1 in September 1983. Caldwell had only recently left his job as an electrician earlier that year and the glut of goals he put past Saddlers keeper Ron Green that afternoon certainly set himself up well in the goalscoring stakes for the rest of his Wanderers career.

COMMUNITY FIXTURE 2012/13

STREET20

Street20 cricket is a fast moving game, designed to be played in crowded urban environments and using readily available facilities such as five-a-side football pitches, basketball courts, MUGA's, tennis courts and sports halls. Street20 operates on the following five principles:

- Offering year round programmes to keep the players involved
- Running programmes that are local to where players live therefore increasing accessibility, opportunity and sustainability
- Offering regular competition and developing a positive attitude whether you win or lose
- Finding the next generation of coaches from within the programme and creating positive local role models for young people to look up to
- Crucially, using the trust and respect developed to help those involved to make more informed choices about their future and increase positive outcomes and prospects

One of the Street20 cricket sessions held is at Ghosia Mosque, and after just four weeks of sessions, BWCT sent two teams from the Mosque down to represent Bolton in the Street20 National Competition.

Teams from Street20 projects across the country including Portsmouth, Essex, Sussex, Newcastle, Suffolk and London converged on Basildon Sports Village, Essex, to decide who would be crowned the National Street20 Champions.

The early stages of the group games started off positively for both Bolton teams, each winning their opening three matches, with both some very strong batting and accurate bowling performances. Bolton 'B' continued their strong start to the tournament and went on to win the rest of their group games to qualify for the quarter finals. Bolton 'A' lost two of their group games, both by very narrow margins. After which they were unfortunately eliminated in a 'sudden death bowl-off' against Portsmouth.

Bolton 'B' progressed to the final where they came up against a strong Portsmouth side; the match was played in great spirits with a large crowd of spectators witnessing some good cricket being played by both sides. Bolton 'B' went onto win the final and were deservedly crowned Street20 National Champions 2012, going unbeaten throughout the whole day.

RESPECT PROGRAMME

Following the success of the npower Respect Programme last season, Bolton Wanderers Community Trust has taken up the delivery of this initiative across schools in Bolton.

The programme uses the young peoples' love of football to encourage their good behaviour off the pitch. Recent events such as the riots around the UK last summer have highlighted the need for these types of projects. BWCT, npower and the Football League Trust are working together to hopefully help 1,200 Year-6 pupils realise the importance of being respectful within sports and in their day-to-day life.

Since September we have already delivered the programme to over 400 pupils and the workshops have been well received by both teachers and pupils. Our trainers go out to local schools and deliver a one hour workshop that relates to respect, teamwork and citizenship with the aim of helping young people to understand the importance of being respectful in everyday life.

As the first school term of the year draws to a close, Bolton Wanderers Community Trust is delighted to announce a prosperous start to its new 'Heart of Football' project, having delivered in seven local Primary & Secondary schools within the community of Bolton.

In August 2012, BWTC received funding from Heart Research UK and SUBWAY® to deliver a brand new health project to the Bolton community.

The Heart of Football project aims to improve the heart health of Year 5 - Year 8 pupils by helping them to acquire the knowledge, attitude and behaviour that lead to healthy lifestyle choices. The programme combines practical and theory sessions that deliver a comprehensive heart health programme. The theory sessions focus on structure, diseases, heart health, nutrition, smoking and how pupils can do daily exercises that will help to raise the heart rate and encourage good heart health. Practical activity sessions consistently relate back to theory throughout in order to reinforce applied learning. These interactive sessions educate young learners on how to take care of their hearts through fun activities and games including the use of heart models, puzzles, touch equipment and group work. In an effort to spread the healthy heart message throughout the community, the Bolton Wanderers Community Trust health team have hosted school cluster tournaments, school competitions, and have made appearances at local hospitals and community groups. There will also be workshops for families that will stress the importance of what we do to our heart and how to maintain strong heart health.

Ben Lawton, Head of Strategy and Development-Health at Bolton Wanderers Community Trust, said: "We are delighted to have received a Heart Research UK and SUBWAY® Healthy Heart Grant to deliver this practical and creative Healthy Heart project. Our aim is to engage pupils with lifestyle messages they will never forget and with the help of professional football players from Bolton Wanderers, I'm sure it will be a great success. We would once again like to thank Heart Research UK and SUBWAY® for this wonderful opportunity and continued support."

Barbara Harpham, National Director at Heart Research UK, said: "It's great to see local role models getting involved in helping to spread the Healthy Heart message across the Bolton community. Children need to be educated about and motivated to lead a healthy lifestyle early on and projects like this are a great way of focusing on heart health in a fun, meaningful and interactive way."

If you would like to learn more about the good work carried out by Heart Research UK and SUBWAY® respectively, please visit their websites at: www.heartresearch.org.uk www.subway.co.uk

NEW BLOOD DONOR SESSIONS WILL BE KICKING OFF AT THE REEBOK STADIUM IN THE NEW YEAR

From February 2013, Wanderers fans and anyone who lives, works or shops in the Horwich area will be able to save lives by giving blood at the Reebok Stadium.

NHS Blood and Transplant – the organisation which manages blood donations in England and North Wales – were approached by the Active Families team from Bolton Wanderers Community Trust with a proposal to begin hosting blood donation sessions at the Reebok Stadium, with a view to making it the premier location for donating blood in Bolton. The proposal was accepted for a variety of reasons, including its good transport links, free parking and ample space.

With many businesses and attractions nearby, it is hoped that sessions at the ground will soon become the biggest in the Bolton area. NHSBT is particularly appealing to local young people to sign up as blood donors after a recent drop in the number of people in their late teens and early twenties giving blood.

NHSBT lead donor relations manager Barbara Blanche said: "We're delighted to be working with Bolton Wanderers to provide these important new sessions at the Reebok Stadium.

"Hopefully they will prove a convenient place to give blood, both for Wanderers fans and anyone who happens to live in the area or be visiting the nearby retail parks and facilities.

"We're currently aiming to recruit 100,000 new blood donors in 100 days and we're particularly keen to hear from young people in the Bolton area who want to sign up and save lives. The number of young people becoming blood donors has fallen dramatically in recent years so we need to reverse that trend in order to secure the blood donors of the future."

Bolton Wanderers Community Trust's Active Families Coordinator Mike Macias said: "This exciting new partnership between Bolton Wanderers Community Trust and NHSBT will help raise the awareness of the need for potential blood donors. Bolton Wanderers Community Trust is proud to lend its support to NHSBT, and thus further establishing its already strong links with the Bolton Community. We urge all Wanderers fans to participate in our newly established donor sessions, as well as encouraging existing donors to follow NHSBT to its new home at the Reebok Stadium."

The first of the new sessions will take place on 4 February, with the next on 22 March and 18 April. Further sessions will follow at monthly intervals.

For more information or to book an appointment, call 0300 123 23 23 or go to www.blood.co.uk

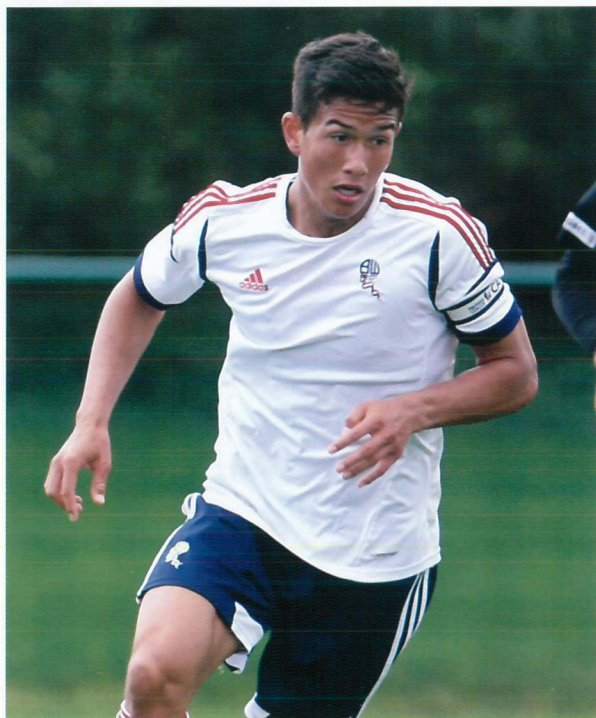

Anyone wanting to donate for the first time should be aged between 17-65, weighing at least 50kg (7st 12lbs) and in general good health. There is no age limit for existing donors.

EVERTON 1-1 WANDERERS

Wanderers' under-18 side were held to a 1-1 draw with Everton at the weekend.

In a promising opening half, Luke Woodland's long-range shot cannoned in-off the post to give David Lee and Tony Kelly's side the lead after 25 minutes.

Bolton continued to enjoy the better of the play after the interval but ultimately paid the price for not adding to their solitary goal when the hosts drew level on 85 minutes.

"We created several good chances in the first half," academy head coach Lee explained. "We passed the ball well in the first half, but couldn't take advantage of our good play.

"The second half was a battle, with us again having a couple of chances.

"Overall, it was pleasing to go to Everton and earn a point against good opponents.

"We move onto the last game of the first phase of games at home to West Brom, before the FA Youth Cup against Portsmouth on Monday 10 December."

SEASON 1978/79 - FRANKIE WORTHY

There was an air of excitement around the town, as Wanderers were about to embark on a new journey, one which many of the younger players and supporters had never experienced before.

Bolton manager Ian Greaves had guided the Trotters back into the top flight of English football after a 14-year absence in the lower leagues, but the former Manchester United full-back was promising no miracles.

No signings were made at the start of the season, as Greaves showed his appreciation by giving the players the opportunity to display their talents on the big stage - and they wouldn't disappoint as the Whites secured another season in the top flight with victory over local rivals Manchester United.

A midweek 2-2 draw at fellow promoted side Southampton saw Bolton gain their first point, with Frank Worthington scoring both goals, and he was laying the foundations for what would prove to be a fantastic season for the former Leeds United and Sunderland man.

A hammering defeat at West Bromwich Albion prompted Greaves to make an unsuccessful bid for Manchester City's Paul Power as Sam Allardyce, Peter Nicholson, Tony Dunne and Paul Jones were all injured in the opening games.

It wasn't until 9 September, that Wanderers registered their first league win of the campaign, a 2-1 victory over Derby County at Burnden Park, and a few weeks later the Whites produced a stunning all-round performance to seal a 3-1 victory over Jock Steins' Leeds as Bolton were proving hard to beat at home.

However, defeats to Chelsea, West Brom and Nottingham Forest contributed to the Trotters' seven game winless streak, and as the important Christmas period lay ahead it was essential that the White Men got more points on the board.

A first top flight away victory since 1964 was achieved, when Queens Park Rangers were put to the sword at Loftus Road as people began to take note of the goal scoring skills of Worthington who claimed a brace which put him top of the league's goal scoring charts.

The following Saturday saw another good performance against Wolves, before the Trotters welcomed Manchester United to Burnden Park, and the players would give the Bolton faithful a perfect Christmas present by sealing a convincing 3-0 win.

Wanderers' only away clean sheet of the season came in the New Year in a goalless draw at Norwich, before bottom club Chelsea were made to pay for the embarrassing defeat earlier in the season, when Neil McNab and youngster David Burke got the goals in a 2-1 win.

In March, the Whites would embark on a run that was to ensure their First Division survival in March. The rich vein of form began with two home victories in three days; first against Southampton before the strike force of Worthington and Gowing saw off Arsenal in preparation for the big trip to Old Trafford on 11 April.

A massive Bolton following were treated to a late winner from that man Worthington in front of the travelling fans and the final whistle sparked jubilant scenes in the away end. The victory essentially secured survival which was a huge relief in itself.

Bolton finished the season in poor form, but it no one really cared. A gap of ten points was enough to secure a second straight season in the top flight, with Worthington finishing top of the league's scoring charts, netting a total of 24 goals - no mean feat in a struggling side.

BOLTON WANDERERS 0 BLACKBURN 0

Bolton Wanderers' development squad produced a commendable display as they battled to a draw with Blackburn Rovers in their league clash at the County Ground on Monday night.

A strong Wanderers side including Marvin Sordell, Benik Afobe and Marcos Alonso outclassed Rovers in large periods of the game but lacked the cutting edge to take all three points.

The first opportunity of the game arrived on 15 minutes when Blackburn came within inches of opening the scoring. A pacey run from Micah Evans created space for the forward to whip in an inviting ball that Osayemen Osawe glanced just over the crossbar.

The game was then starved of any goalmouth action as both defences remained resilient and frustrated the opposing attacks.

With just under ten minutes remaining in the first half, both sides fashioned chances that came agonisingly close to breaking the deadlock.

The first fell to Wanderers from a free-kick. The ball was whipped in by Gregg Wylde towards the far post and Ben Hampson rose to nod the ball towards goal but saw his attempt cleared off the line.

The visitors then came close to finding the net from a free-kick in the 39th minute as Hugo Molina curled a dangerous effort inches to the right of the far corner before the Whites created the final opportunity of the half.

The lively Sordell received possession 20 yards from goal before turning and firing a low drive that flashed across goal and just wide of the post.

Wanderers started the second period brightly as a direct approach from Alonso set up a glorious chance for Sordell.

A ball played deep from the Spaniard left-back put Sordell through on goal, and the 21-year-old outmuscled the defender before unfortunately scooping his effort high over the bar.

Rovers fought back and nearly found the elusive opening goal just before the hour mark. A cross from Bruno Ribeiro towards Molina at the far post was well anticipated by Jay Lynch, as the goalkeeper ran from his net to block an instinctive volley by the Portuguese midfielder.

Following Lynch's save, a period of dominance from Bolton ensued as they enjoyed the majority of the possession and limited Rovers to very little joy in the final third of the pitch, although Wanderers couldn't quite produce clear opportunities themselves.

The closest the home side came for the remainder of the game was in the 79th minute after more inventive play from Wylde.

The winger raced past Evans before hitting an accurate cross that Afobe could only direct wide with his header, a chance that proved to be the last of the match as the game finished goalless.

OPPOSITION SUMMARY

A woeful start to the 2012/13 season cost Paul Jewell his job and he was replaced by former Wolves boss Mick McCarthy who has lifted spirits at Portman Road after securing two wins in his opening three matches in charge.

The Tractor Boys picked up only seven points in their opening 13 Championship matches under Jewell but wins over Birmingham City and Burnley under McCarthy lifted Ipswich off the bottom of the league table.

Another positive for Ipswich has been the form of DJ Campbell who has impressed since signing on loan from QPR.

Visiting View

Jonathon Ogle, Ipswich Town's Digital Media Editor

"There's no doubting the start to the season wasn't what the club expected and it was a very frustrating time for everyone connected to Town. Ultimately the poor results on the pitch cost Paul Jewell his job but there has been a sense of a fresh start at the club under Mick McCarthy. The impact the former Wolves man has made so far has been positive, so let's hope that continues.

"Since arriving at Portman Road on loan from QPR, DJ Campbell has proven to be a real source of goals and has looked sharp and energetic in all of his displays so far. His late winner in the recent win over Burnley – Mick McCarthy's first home game in charge – endeared him to the supporters and he will be one to watch. It will also be interesting to see how Nigel Reo-Coker could fare against his former club.

"Although not what fans would have wanted to hear at the start of the season, the main aim for Mick McCarthy, in the short term, is guiding Town away from relegation. Ipswich are the longest-serving club in the Championship and if they are going to leave this division they want it to be going up, not down, so that will be the realistic aim for now.

"Both sides are under the stewardship of relatively new managers and both seem to be steadily improving. I think it will be a tight game with perhaps just a single goal separating the sides. I've got to stay loyal to the Blues so I predict 2-1 to Town, even though my head suggests a 1-1 draw."

THE MANAGER

MICK MCCARTHY

Born: Barnsley, England

Date of Birth: 07/02/1959

Former Republic of Ireland international Mick McCarthy took over from Paul Jewell on November 1 after the club's terrible run of form left them at the foot of the Championship table.

McCarthy has been without a managerial job since being sacked by Wolves during the 2011/12 season but he has certainly steadied the ship at Portman Road.

McCarthy has also managed Millwall, the Republic of Ireland and Sunderland prior to his lengthy stint at Molineux.

THE CAPTAIN

CARLOS EDWARDS

Born: Diego Martin, Trinidad & Tobago.

Date of Birth: 24/10/1978

Position: Midfielder

Signed From: Sunderland (2009)

Despite joining the Tractor Boys as a right midfielder, Carlos Edwards has regularly been deployed as a right back and has impressed the Portman Road faithful since signing from Sunderland in 2009.

His performances in the 2011/12 season earned him the captain's armband as well as the club's Player of the Year award in what was a very impressive season for the Trinidadian.

Edwards started his career with Wrexham before joining Luton Town in 2005 where he played until 2007 when he joined the Black Cats.

THE ONE TO WATCH

DJ CAMPBELL

Born: Hammersmith, England

Date of Birth: 12/11/1981

Position: Striker

Signed From: Three month loan from QPR

Currently on loan from Premier League side Queens Park Rangers, DJ Campbell is already winning the hearts of the Ipswich fans after a goalscoring run of form in the early part of the season.

Campbell spent the majority of his youth career with the Hoops as well as featuring in the Aston Villa academy but after not being offered a contract he went into non-league football.

The striker has more recently had spells with Blackpool, Derby County, Leicester City, Birmingham City and Brentford after making the step up from non-league football.

J IS FOR...

THE GROUNDS

JOHN SMITH'S STADIUM

Wanderers will have fond memories of their last trip to Huddersfield's 24,500 capacity stadium as Sam Allardyce's side came out on top in a five-goal thriller in their Division One fixture in 2000. The Trotters will make their first visit to the ground in over ten years next weekend when the two teams meet for the first time in this season's Championship campaign.

ST JAMES' PARK

Bolton last visited Newcastle United's 52,387 capacity stadium in April this year when Papiss Cisse and Hatem Ben Arfa's second-half goals secured a 2-0 victory for the home side. The Trotters' last victory on Tyneside was six years ago, and their biggest away victory against the Magpies was in 1935 when Charles Foweraker's side secured a 3-1 victory for the Whites.

ESTADIO JOSE ALVALADE

Bolton have made one previous visit to the impressive Estadio Jose Alvalade when the Wanderers travelled to Portugal for their UEFA Cup last 16 clash with Sporting Lisbon in 2007. An 85th-minute strike from Bruno Pereirinha condemned Gary Megson's side to a 1-0 defeat as the Whites were eliminated from the competition after securing victory over Atletico Madrid in the previous round.

J IS ALSO FOR...

JULES RIMET TROPHY

The Jules Rimet Trophy was awarded as the original World Cup winning trophy and it was used between 1930 and 1970, before it was replaced by the current trophy that was lifted by former Bolton midfielder Youri Djorkaeff in 1998.

JUGGLING

Club legend Jay-Jay Okocha became famous for his skillful ability on the ball and his moments of juggling genius against Premier League giants Arsenal, Manchester United and Tottenham Hotspur.

THE PLAYERS

JUSSI JAASKELAINEN

The former Finland international goalkeeper spent 15 years at the Reebok making over 530 appearances for the Whites, putting him joint third in Bolton's all-time list. The Wanderers legend was signed by Colin Todd in 1997 and he quickly made himself a first-team regular, however a cruciate ligament injury sidelined him for most of the 2001 promotion-winning season. Jussi received the club's Player of the Year award and Players' Player of the Year award for 2007 after helping Bolton secure a UEFA Cup spot for only the second time in their history and the stopper was awarded a testimonial match in 2009 against Hibernian, in which he kept a clean sheet.

MARIO JARDEL

The Brazilian striker moved to the Reebok in August 2003 from Portuguese club Sporting Lisbon with a reputation of being a prolific striker, scoring over 150 goals for Porto and 55 goals in his first season with Sporting. However, the highly-rated forward failed to find his scoring touch in England, making seven appearances scoring just three goals, all in the League Cup against Walsall and Liverpool.

CLAUS JENSEN

The Danish playmaker made 86 appearances for the Trotters during his two-year spell at the club, scoring eight goals, after he was signed by Colin Todd in 1998. During his time at the Reebok, Jensen would go on to make his international debut before scoring his first goal against Malta, and then his second, third and fourth in a man-of-the-match performance against Egypt.

JERSEY

The Wanderers' jersey has changed a lot over the years, but the Trotters' home kit has remained White ever since the 1891/92 season when Bolton wore blue.

JOURNEY

Wanderers have recently made their shortest and longest journeys of the season in the past week. The Whites faithful endured the 540 mile round trip to Brighton last weekend and on Wednesday fans had the short 30-minute trip to Blackburn.
